What Would you Recommend About Kingsway?

The Best Thing About Kingsway Business Park

The location and presentation of the premises is perfect for Takeuchi.

“The RDA is always very approachable and is always on hand for support when needed. They team help facilitate the sense of community and the regular business breakfast meetings are a great way to meet other occupiers of the business park.”

After raising the global standard with the world’s first compact tracked excavator, Takeuchi continue to innovate year after year with new products designed and built for superior performance and reliability.

Rapidly running out of space at their old premise, coupled with being the head office for Takeuchi in the UK, led the team to reconsider their location and start the search for a new space.

As the head office, Takeuchi were looking for a new home that had a prestigious look and feel. Another big factor was proximity to motorway links and being close to existing workforce.

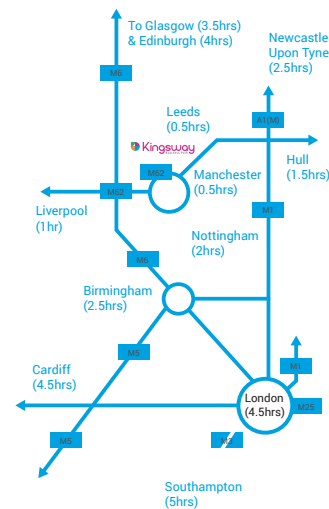

With a distributor network spanning across the UK and Ireland, being close to the motorway was important. Kingsway ticked all the boxes for location, firstly its central position within the country but secondly the access to motorways that it provides.

Being only a short distance from the current premises, Kingsway also meant that the existing workforce could still commute to work with little change or disruption.

As a new development, Kingsway also offered Takeuchi the prestigious base they were looking for. Not only in the finish and specification of the unit but the business park as a whole is well presented.

“Being close to Manchester airport is great for our international visitors. We regularly have visitors from Japan and the US, so being so close to the airport is really useful for us as a business.”
